Submitted by Dr. Mark Rapoport, Director, Geriatric Psychiatry Subspecialty Program

The University of Toronto Geriatric Psychiatry Residency Program provides trainees with advanced training in geriatric psychiatry with the goal of graduating well-rounded physicians who will provide exemplary care and be leaders in the field. The program involves comprehensive training in all CanMEDs roles and promotes scholarship in the areas of research, education, and quality improvement. The Program accepted 5 residents for 2020-2021 and 3 residents for 2021-2022. Significant work has gone into the conversion of Competency by Design (CBD). The Program will begin implementing CBD in July 2021. Accreditation from the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons took place in November 2020. The Program was granted ongoing accreditation status with the request for an action plan report to address some minor items for enhancement.
